

Risk Management Consultation Service

- How do I gain informed consent?
- Am I required to report a patient who may be an impaired driver?
- When and how do I disclose a medical error to the patient?
- Can I be held liable for the acts of other medical and non-medical providers?
- How do I know if I am a “covered entity” under HIPAA?

When you are faced with these questions, where do you turn?

If you are insured with TNP, you can turn to the Risk Management Consultation Service (RMCS).

The toll-free RMCS helpline provides direct access to risk managers who provide advice tailored to the neurologist’s specific needs. We encourage TNP insureds to call the RMCS whenever they have concerns or questions about any issue that presents a potential liability risk.

Our objective is not simply to render risk-management advice, but also to assist with identifying and assessing risk-management issues, to explore risk management techniques and strategies, and to provide necessary support. The RMCS staff may also provide referrals to other risk-management resources or local malpractice defense attorneys when appropriate.

Whether you are concerned about the professional liability risks associated with misdiagnosis of a neurological condition or worried about documentation, our risk managers are here to help you and are only a phone call away.
